NEW QUESTION: 1

Ensuring least privilege does not require:

- A. Ensuring that the user alone does not have sufficient rights to subvert an important process.
- B. Determining the minimum set of privileges required for a user to perform their duties.
- C. Restricting the user to required privileges and nothing more.
- D. Identifying what the user's job is.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Ensuring that the user alone does not have sufficient rights to subvert an important process is a concern of the separation of duties principle and it does not concern the least privilege principle.
