Which of the following is true regarding probability?

- I).  $0 < P(E) < 1$ : the probability of an event E is a number between 0 and 1, exclusive.
II). The sum of the probabilities of any group of mutually exclusive events equals 1.
III).  $0 \leq P(E) \leq 1$ : the probability of an event E is a number between 0 and 1, inclusive.

A. I and II.

B. II and III.

C. III only.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Only III is true:  $0 \leq P(E) \leq 1$ : the probability of an event E is a number between 0 and 1, inclusive. A probability can equal 1 or 0; thus, statement I is false. Statement II would only be true if it read:

The sum of the probabilities of any group of mutually exclusive and exhaustive events equals 1. Throwing a 6-sided die can lead to 6 different outcomes, each of which has probability of 1/6.

However, if your group of mutually exclusive outcomes only included results 1 and 2, then the sum of those probabilities is not 1. Such a group would not be exhaustive because it excludes the outcomes 3, 4, 5, 6.
