Examine the parallelism parameters for your instance:

What are true about the execution of the query?

- A. DOP for the statement is determined by the dictionary DOP of the accessed objects.
- B. It is generated to execute in parallel.
- C. It will execute in parallel only if the estimated execution time is 10 or more seconds.
- D. DOP for the statement is calculated automatically.
- E. It may execute serially.
- F. It will execute in parallel only if the LINEITEM table has a dictionary DOP defined.

Answer: D,E

Explanation:

E:

F (not C): It may execute serially. See note below.

Incorrect:

A, B: Dictionary DOP not used with PARALLEL (AUTO) hint.

D: The default value of parallel_min_time_threshold is 30 (not 10) seconds.

Note:

* parallel_min_percent PARALLEL_MIN_PERCENT operates in conjunction with PARALLEL_MAX_SERVERS and PARALLEL_MIN_SERVERS. It lets you specify the minimum percentage of parallel execution processes (of the value of PARALLEL_MAX_SERVERS) required for parallel execution. Setting this parameter ensures that parallel operations will not execute sequentially unless adequate resources are available. The default value of 0 means that no minimum percentage of processes has been set.

Consider the following settings:

PARALLEL_MIN_PERCENT = 50 PARALLEL_MIN_SERVERS = 5 PARALLEL_MAX_SERVERS = 10

If 8 of the 10 parallel execution processes are busy, only 2 processes are available. If you then request a query with a degree of parallelism of 8, the minimum 50% will not be met.
